

RALEIGH PREPARING FOR HER BIG FIGHT

Anti-Saloon League Organizes Forces, Raises Funds, and Invites Evangelist Ham.

NORTH CAROLINA NEWS

(Special to The Times-Dispatch.)

RALEIGH, N. C., November 26.—The Raleigh Anti-Saloon League organized to-night for the impending prohibition campaign by the election of W. N. Jones, president and raising a fund of $500 at a mass-meeting. A resolution was adopted inviting Rev. Mordecai Ham, the not a temperance evangelist now in Wilmington, to come from there here and give the desired impetus to the Raleigh campaign. Governor Glenn spoke briefly, pledging his efforts for the success of prohibition. He also brought three negro women to the Raleigh campaign, just received from Grifton that not a single vote was cast against prohibition in the election there to-day. The election is to be December 26th.

Further hearing by Standing Master Montgomery in the Southern railway case is fixed for to-morrow morning. Among prominent witnesses who have already arrived to be examined for the State are Chairman C. C. McChord, of the Kentucky Railroad Commission, and C. W. Hillman, expert accountant, of Louisville, Ky. No indications of the plans of either of the State in the matter of the extent of the impending hearing are made. Talk continues in the possibility of an extra session of the Legislature, but many think there will be none.

Sheriff Hunter, of Buncombe county, was here last night to deliver to the penitentiary Ben Postall, a white man, under sentence to serve thirty years for the murder of a cousin, named Edwards. He also brought three negro women to serve five years each for shoplifting.

It is understood that Hon. Ashley Horne will open headquarters in Raleigh next week from which his campaign for the Democratic nomination for Governor will be conducted. The name of his manager is not yet made public.

SOCIAL and PERSONAL

IN the home of the Rev. Dr. and Mrs. J. B. Hutson, No. 125 South Laurel Street, at noon to-day, will be celebrated the marriage of their daughter, Daisy Hawthorne, to Mr. Robert Lee Cole, of Chilhowie, Va.

Only relatives and members of the bridal party will witness the marriage and attend the wedding breakfast at the Jefferson immediately after the ceremony.

Mrs. Foster, of Kentucky, and Miss Emma Moorehead Whitfield will attend the bride as matron and maid of honor.

Mr. Cole's best man will be Dr. Kincaid, of Mississippi. Little Miss Virginia Lloyd, of Philadelphia, will be flower girl, and Master Laelhan MacLean, son of Dr. and Mrs. H. L. MacLean, of Richmond, will hold the ribbons.

Miss Hutson is the only daughter of Dr. and Mrs. Hutson, and a grand daughter of Dr. Daniel Brown, through whom she descends from Sir William Calloway, of England. She has won laurels for herself at the educational institutions she has attended, and since her school days has been doing charity work in home and foreign mission fields.

Mr. Cole is prominent in Virginia and Kentucky.

Madison-McCorkle.

Miss Rebe McCorkle, daughter of Mrs. Mary Campbell McCorkle, of Portsmouth, Va., and Mr. John P. Madison, of New Orleans, La., will be married this afternoon at 5 o'clock at Atlanta, Ga., at the residence of the bride's relative, Mrs. Joseph B. Whitehead, No. 583 Peachtree Street, the Rev. Z. S. Farland, of All Saints' Episcopal Church, Atlanta, officiating.

The bride, who is a strikingly handsome brunette, is a daughter of the late Samuel McCorkle, of Lynchburg, Va., and has recently made her home in Portsmouth.

The groom is the son of the late William Madison, of Petersburg, Va., and a graduate of the University of Virginia. For some years he taught at the McCabe School, in Petersburg, and at present is connected with the editorial staff of the New Orleans Item.

Concerning Miss Langhorne's Debut.

According to the Washington Post of yesterday, Mrs. Reginald Brooks, one of the most brilliant and charming sisters, of Virginia, has announced that her friends that the debut of Miss Nora Langhorne, her youngest and only unmarried sister, will take place within the next few weeks. Miss Langhorne is a graduate of the University of Virginia, and the daughter of Mrs. Brooks and Mr. W. Cary Smith, of Astor, Jr., both of whom have engaged houses in New York.

The Post further states that the name of Prince Francis of Teck, the popular brother of the Princess of Wales, is mentioned as the possible future husband of Miss Langhorne. He paid her marked attention during her visit to her sisters in England last year, and has contemplated a visit to America which will coincide with Miss Langhorne's debut, the responsibility of which may rest upon her. Mr. Smith, who, with Mrs. Stuyvesant Fish, will launch Miss Langhorne into the Society of the Four Hundred with a series of brilliant dinners and dances.

Prince Francis of Teck has recently come into an enormous fortune. Miss Langhorne has of late been the guest of her sister, Mrs. Brooks, at Westbury, L. I., and was a bridesmaid at the marriage of Miss Josephine Boid Flagg to Mr. Philip Boyer, of New York, which took place recently in St. Thomas Church, New York.

Mrs. Charles Dana Gibson was most probably return from Paris to witness her sister's debut.
